Crypting Engine - Terms of Service

1. Ethical and Educational Use Only Crypting Engine is strictly for ethical and educational purposes. Marlboro Man's Offsec is not responsible for any unauthorized or malicious use of the software.

2. Guarantee and Refund Policy Marlboro Man's Offsec guarantees that Crypting Engine will bypass Windows Defender on a local machine, excluding detections based on machine learning. If a client suspects that their payload is detected, both parties must verify this using Kleenscan's test results. If the detection is confirmed as valid, a refund is guaranteed. This guarantee is only valid for the first month for clients with an active subscription to Crypting Engine.

3. Technical Support Clients receive technical support for setting up Crypting Engine. Support is strictly limited to inquiries related to the Crypting Engine itself.

4. Restrictions on Payload Analysis Clients are only permitted to analyze or scan their payloads using non-distributing platforms. If a client uses a distributing platform (e.g., VirusTotal), all guarantees are immediately revoked, including support, and the client will lose access to future updates. However, they will still be able to use Crypting Engine releases prior to the violation, provided their license remains valid.

5. Compatibility Issues Marlboro Man's Offsec will make every effort to resolve compatibility issues. This may involve obtaining the client's payload and reproducing their workspace to diagnose and resolve the issue.

6. Downtime Compensation In the event of downtime, clients will receive compensation for their license(s) accordingly.

7. False Statements Publicly making false statements about Crypting Engine is strictly prohibited. If a client is found to have made false statements, their access to support and future updates will be revoked. If the individual responsible for false statements is not a client, they will be denied access to Marlboro Man's Offsec services in the future. A statement must be proven false for it to be deemed a violation.

8. Policy on Racism Any form of racism will result in complete disassociation with the client. This includes revocation of licenses, termination of communication, and no compensation.

By using Crypting Engine, you acknowledge and agree to these terms. Failure to comply may result in the termination of access and services provided by Marlboro Man's Offsec.

For HF users only: You must read the terms of service regarding the product and/or service. By purchasing this product and/or service, you agree to the terms of service regarding the product or service.

To comply with HackForum policy and for your own safety, you MUST start a contract. You MUST mark the contract as complete after sending your payment to receive your license key, document, and/or download link. NOTE: To protect ourselves from malicious intent, you MUST mark the contract as complete after completing the payment. We will track the download link to verify if you have received your product. Once downloaded, we will mark the contract as complete on our side.